Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

I have read letter after letter about the controversy with the unions and I have gone to their Web sites. My concern is not with the CPU itself, but with the unprofessional immature attitude of leaders that want to represent.

How can CPU accuse USW and not confront them? How can CPU resolve any problems if they don't face the problems?

On CPU's Web site there were some very disturbing avatars. There was a white stick figure beating, shooting, spearing and clubbing a black stick figure. What was that all about? Personally, this depicts racial overtones and should not have been on the Web site. How can the CPU officers condone such an avatar? You're suppose to represent all facets of your membership. I'm doubtful.

A problem is not a problem unless it's left unresolved. Affiliate with the positive — disaffiliate with the negative. There are over 900 families that will be affected by a decision made by a few.
